

When I was a little girl, my mother brought home little seashells, which when placed in water, would open to release tiny flowers. I was so enthralled with these delightful wonders that I frequently purchased them for my own children until I could no longer find them.

So it was with great pleasure that I first witnessed a similar event with the flowering tea that Danica Enlow mailed to us from Korea. I was not sure what to expect at first, since I had never seen or heard of such a thing, but after following the steeping directions, to my amazement, a flower bloomed before my very eyes. Like a little girl watching flowers blossom from tiny shells, I marveled at the incredible transformation that ended in such lovely beauty.

of the finest teas in the world. It is a blend of the finest teas in the world, with a hint of the most delicate flavors.

... ..

... ..