

 Frosty the Snowman   Was a jolly happy soul  With a corncob pipe and a button nose  And two eyes made out of coal  <span style="color:
rgb(47, 79, 79);">Frosty the Snowman  Is a fairytale they say   He was made of snow
But the children know   How he came to life one day  ♦  I just love snowmen, and so sit with my children each winter to create them for our enjoyment throughout the season. Some we have created from tongue depressors, paint, felt, pipe cleaners, and tiny twigs; others are wooden snowmen, which we have painted, while our pictures are created using compass, construction paper, and paint. Whatever the medium, we not only enjoy the finished product but the actual process. Who wouldn't? Aren't they precious!  ♦    ♦    ♦    ♦    ♦    ♦    ♦    ♦  