-Many fruit trees can be planted at the end of September. Stark Brothers Nursery is one of the oldest, most respected nurseries for fruit trees. Look for dormant bare rooted one year old nursery trees with a good root system. The trees do best on a northern facing slope where cold air will flow away from the trees. Avoid low areas where frost settles.

-Fall is the time to plant garlic, shallots, and multiplying onions. It is also a very good time to make notes on this past year's garden of what did well and what did not, of what you desire to plant again, and where you want to move things for next year.
